

What is the New Zealand Wound Care Society?

The New Zealand Wound Care Society was established by a group of health care professionals from different backgrounds, who had an interest in wound care.

Membership is open to all health care professionals, companies or employees of companies involved in wound care.

The Aim of the Society

The NZWCS aims to promote and share best practice in wound management in all health care settings in New Zealand through the provision of education, resources, networking and expert advice. The Society provides:

- Seminars, meetings & conferences
- Society website: www.nzwcs.org.nz
- Quarterly Primary Intention Journals
- Access to resources & expert knowledge

For further information please contact your Local Area Co-ordinator,
